

NOTICES OF EMERGENCY RULEMAKING

Under the Administrative Procedure Act, an agency may determine that adoption, amendment, or repeal of a rule is necessary for immediate preservation of the public health, safety or welfare and the notice and public participation requirements are impracticable. Under this determination, the agency may adopt the rule as an emergency and submit it to the Attorney General for review. The Attorney General approves the rule and then files it with the Secretary of State. The rule takes effect upon filing with the Secretary of State and remains in effect for 180 days. An emergency rule may be renewed for 1 or 2 180-day periods if the requirements of A.R.S. § 41-1026 are met. If the emergency rule is not renewed or the rule is not permanently adopted by the end of the 180-day period, the emergency rule expires and the text of the rule returns to its former language, if any.

Notices of Emergency Rulemaking

7. An explanation of the rule, including the agency's reasons for initiating the rule:

The amounts notaries public are allowed to charge for their services and the amount of the surety bond a notary must purchase before being commissioned as a notary have previously been set by statute. Laws 2000, Ch. 210, § 2 takes the amount of the bond out of statute and requires the Secretary of State to prescribe the amount of the bond. Laws 2000, Ch. 210, § 3 takes the fees notaries are allowed to charge out of statute and requires the Secretary of State to prescribe the amount by rule.

Until 1996, notaries in Arizona were allowed to charge up to 75¢ per signature notarized. In 1996, the law was changed so that notaries could charge up to $2 per signature notarized, oath administered, or page certified. Many states are now realizing that the fees notaries have traditionally been allowed to charge do not take into consideration the time and effort a notary must take when performing a notarization and the liability they must face. New Mexico's fees for acknowledgments and jurats are $1, the lowest of any of the southwestern states. Utah and Colorado both allow $5 for an acknowledgment or a jurat, although Nevada specifies that each additional signature being acknowledged has a charge of $2.50. Texas allows $6 for acknowledgments and jurats, with $1 the charge for each additional signature being acknowledged. California is the highest state at $10 for acknowledgments and jurats.

8. A showing of good cause why the rule is necessary to promote a statewide interest if the rule will diminish a previous grant of authority of a political subdivision of this state:

Not applicable

9. A reference to any study that the agency proposes to rely on in its evaluation or justification for the proposed rules and where the public may obtain or review the study, all data underlying each study, any analysis of the study, and other supporting material:

No specific study was made. However, the Office researched the amounts for fees and bonds for notaries in neighboring states.

10. The summary of the economic, small business, and consumer impact:

These emergency rules do not change the amounts of the fees and bonds currently specified in statute. Therefore, there is no additional economic, small business, or consumer impact.

11. Any other matters prescribed by statute that are applicable to the specific agency or to any specific rule or class of rules:

Not applicable

12. Incorporations by reference and their location in the rules:

No applicable

13. An explanation of the situation justifying the rule's adoption as an emergency rule:

Because the law takes effect on July 18, 2000, at which time the fees and bond amounts currently specified in statute will no longer appear in statute, and because the regular rulemaking process takes longer than the time allowed between the time the law passed and the time it takes effect, we are filing these rules as emergency rules. A Notice of Rulemaking Docket Opening is being submitted to the Secretary of State's Office for Register publication at the same time as these emergency rules are being submitted for approval to the Attorney General's Office.

14. The date of the Attorney General's approval of the emergency rules:

July 19, 2000
